

Ella

A Harry Potter workshop that can help people have fun whilst they grow up. You could make a wand or act out scenes or even play quidditch! It could be one pound per person and the money could go to children to make their lives better. A broom ride could be free, and it would be like flying a real broom and other rides could be free! You could also draw characters.