My idea is called 2nd hand park, what it does is use recycled materials to build a kids play area. It uses recycled metals, plastics, rubber and more that would of otherwise have been burnt or that would cause pollution.

The park includes a zonte race, slide, swings, obstacle course, crash mats and trampoline. My park is child friendly because if you are a kid and you see a park you are going to go running and you are going to start playing. I think it could be put on Commercial Street because it is a massive open space used for nothing but walking.
